For the prevention and cure o
BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS
is recommended
HAHN's ANTI BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor s feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

PROSPECTUS.

ASIA.

The Asiatic part of this work contains a general view of the antediluvians—of the general deluge—of the re-settlement of the Globe after that great event—of the primitive postdiluvian nations which were formed in Asia, the cradle of the world. Their various ramifications, revolutions, and of the general course of Empire.

AFRICA.

The African part, contains a concise history of Egypt, Carthage, Numidia, Mauritania, Abyssinia, of the Piratical States, and the Hottentots, with a grouped view of its uncivilized settlements.

EUROPE.

The European part, contains the history of Greece and Rome, from their origin to their dissolution—of the various nations which were conquered by them—and of the nations by which the Romans themselves were finally conquered, and of the nations which were formed from the fragments of the Roman Empire, and the various revolutions of the latter, together with a view of the nations which never were subjected to the Romans.

AMERICA.

The American part, contains a general history of the Western continent, under the heads of Free, European, and Aboriginal or unconquered America. The first contains a history of the United States, from their first settlement as English Colonies, till the present time.—The second, of all parts dependant on Europe.—And the third, of all that are still owned by the Aborigines.

It is expected that the whole will be comprised in 10 or 12 octavo volumes, of between four and five hundred pages each—to be printed in Philadelphia, on good paper and fair types, for $3 1-3 per volume, in sheep binding, or $4 1-3 Calf Gilt, to be paid for on delivery.

AUTHORITIES.

This work has been in contemplation upwards of 40 years. The project of it was conceived in 1786, on reading the Universal History, then recently edited in 60 volumes, by a society of gentlemen in England. The original idea of extracting the quintessence of that voluminous work, which contained the most complete system of history the world had then seen, has ever since been enlarging and improving by an attentive perusal of the histories written by Robertson, Hume, Gibbon, and other modern authors—of the Asiatic researches—of the works of Sir William Jones, and other learned Orientalists—the publications of intelligent travellers, who, in the course of the last half century have explored almost every region of the Globe. These collectively have thrown a blaze of light on countries comparatively unknown, and on portions, both of ancient and modern history which were confused and obscure at the period when the writers of the Universal History published their work. The arrangement of materials collected from these sources commenced in the year 1780, when, in consequence of the surrender of Charleston to Sir Henry Clinton, the author was suddenly released from a sea of business and sent as a prisoner of war to the British Garrison then in St. Augustine, and there confined for eleven months, without any peculiar employment. Steady progress has been made for the last ten years in correcting and transcribing the work for publication.

UNITED STATES.

The History of the United States is given at full length—that of foreign countries is more or less expended or contracted in proportion to the intrinsic importance of each—its tendency to illustrate portions of Holy Writ—the Greek and Latin Classics—and also in proportion to its connexion with the U. States, or as furnishing useful practical information to its citizens, or as the paternal soil of their ancestors.

The above sketch of the nature and objects of this immense work, which has occupied the attention of the Author for upwards of 40 years, was found among his papers, and is now given to the public in his own words. Since that period, a few chapters have been added by the Reverend SAMUEL STANHOPE SMITH, which bring it down to the close of the last war.

The publication commences with a third impression of the History of the U. States, in three volumes, which is all that has ever appeared. The whole will not be delivered under 15 or 20 months. It is proper to state, that the gentlemen who have the direction of it are neither booksellers nor printers, and receive no pecuniary consideration for their trouble—but are willing to make the necessary advances to carry it into execution provided the sale it warranted by public patronage. The profits arising are to be appropriated for the support and education of his children, four of each sex: to them its success is a matter of deep importance.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER FROM ——.

Washington, April 9, 1818.

Yes! I have had the pleasure of hearing Mr. HOLLEY. It was on Sunday last, and I was much pleased.—Not that I learned any thing very valuable in religion from him—but he seemed to be a polished man: he charmed me with his learning, his intelligence, the genius of his oratory, his scholar-like style, and his very chaste pronounciation.

He commenced the service with what he called prayer—in which he invoked the superintending care of the Deity, and implored that it might be extended to man and mankind in all his offices and in all their works. The rest consisted of a cautious exposition of maxims or doctrines which, abstractedly considered, could neither be much admired nor much condemned. They did not seize upon you with great force, nor did they seem to violate your established faith with that degree of violence as to cause repugnance.

Preparatory to his discourse, or sermon, he gave us a beautiful proem, or introductory piece upon Liberality, which was truly eloquent and ingenious. The object evidently was to discountenance and to soothe the unfriendly opinions which his first discourse on the preceding Sunday had excited; and by a bold and impassioned appeal to the feelings of his audience, to remove every existing impediment to the reception of his system—He then read the xiv. chapter of Paul to the Romans, occasionally commenting upon the verses as he read them—which he made the ground work of his discourse.

I cannot undertake to give you an exact account of all he said, or the order in which it was uttered; for I dare say much has escaped my recollection. You know one cannot remember so much of one of those brilliant orations compounded of philippic and philosophy, as of a plain logical discourse pursuing an established order of things. The first acts ravishingly upon the feelings and despoils you of your senses—the latter is colder and slower in its operations, and lies more concatenated in the mind. Do not understand by this that I mean Mr. H. does not reason; the contrary is the fact.

He dwelt most emphatically in his discourse upon the horrors which have sprung from contested points of faith and the total inutility of religious rituals. In support of these positions he drew examples from the fierce and sanguinary religious contests which were furnished in the history of England, France, Scotland—and last of all, of New-England—where the Quakers had been tortured by the Puritans. The character of Christ he admired and recommended for imitation. He acknowledged him the Son of God—but whether he acknowledged his Divinity is a matter of dispute among his hearers. He admitted his mission and its objects, and eloquently depicted the causes of his persecution. The old fashioned doctrine of the Trinity was not clearly denied—but the commentaries were not entirely disgusting to its votaries, nor yet satisfactory; and he drew a sort of parallel between ancient mythology and the christian system—which, however wonderful, was unrivalled for its fancy, its genius, and its beauty. I little expected ever to have heard the fables of Cronos, and Saturn, and Jupiter, brought up either to illustrate or to enforce our holy religion; but when the preacher came to the loves of Cupid and Psyche, I looked next for something nearer to our own times, and better founded in fact—I mean the story of the Apple Girl and the Norwegian, that is now going the rounds here.

In truth, my friend, I have been exceedingly delighted, but very little instructed: this mode of teaching religion by a perpetual recurrence to philosophy and common sense, is what I can't give in to. Let philosophy attend the schools, and minister in the institutions of science—and let common sense do her common duties in common life.—But religion must consist in faith, humility and good works; for if we bring it to the standard of common sense alone, we shall have as many systems as we have degrees of intelligence. God and his works are beyond the control or criticism of common sense, and he who attempts to make religion what the unassisted common sense of mankind shall determine it to be, invades the providence of God, and will, if he succeeds, overwhelm mankind in wretchedness.

Rosseau and D'Alembert have been followers in this same system before; they had their abettors and followers, by whom reason was deified and worshipped, and France survived a revolution, whose blood-stained calamities and horrors were the offspring of that system. At a great crisis in our own political affairs, we were called on by "Common Sense" to judge of our condition and to decide on our course.—In human affairs, we could have no better guide. But during all this, we clung to the cross, to our faith, and to our rites—and the God of our salvation, who gives the battle not to the strong, guarded us unhurt and victorious through the contest.

In religion we must have faith, from which alone springs hope. God has revealed much, but all is not revealed. Our greatest merit consists in our faith, for by that we expect to be made whole. If common sense is to be the standard in religion, all faith is discarded and the christian's hope is broken. If it was impious in a heathen age to invade heaven by piling mountains upon mountains to enter within its limits—it is not less so in a christian age to scan the providence of God, his decrees, his laws, and his will, by the frail and fallible powers of common human sense.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT AT WASHINGTON.

Friday, April 10, 1818.

Once more was the affair of Spain and Mr. Meade whipt round the circle of debate in the house of representatives, by the indefatigable unrelenting hand of trans appalachian patriotism, and Ferdinand, Spain, tyranny, despotism, and other monarchical terribilities, were set off in an oratorical fulmination, contrasted with a suitable number of interesting self-gratulatory compliments to ourselves and our greatness, our happiness, our freedom, our spirit and philanthropy, till even those who enjoyed it most, thought there had been almost enough of it—and several, who being of opinion with the old fellow in the comedy, that too much of one thing is enough, were fairly sick of it, very properly conceiving that the house might well dispense with Spanish affairs for the short residue of the session—more particularly as in each of the aspects in which they had been viewed, as much had already been done by congress and by the executive, as either could do, short of declaring war, which both seemed disposed to decline till driven to it by inevitable necessity.

The committee to whom was referred the consideration of Mr. Meade's affair, had made a report, recommending it to the house to resolve that congress would support the president in any measure to which he might deem it adviseable to have recourse for the liberation of Mr. Meade—and yesterday Mr. Trimble moved this resolution—"That the demand made by the president of the U. States upon the king of Spain for the liberation of Richard W. Meade, a citizen of the U. States detained in confinement, ought to be supported & enforced by vesting in the president an authority to make reprisal upon the Spanish consul, in the event of a failure on the part of Spain promptly to discharge the said Meade."

In support of this proposition, Mr. Trimble made a speech containing a multitude of sarcasms and common-place invectives against Spain, and the Spanish government, with some observations on the reciprocal duties of allegiance and protection, equally neat, new, and edifying.

In opposition to this it was said by Mr Hopkinson that the proposition contained in the report of the committee went far enough: that congress had no right to give such a power as that proposed, nor the president to assume it—the liberty of every person in the U States, whether citizen or foreigner, being protected by the laws, so long as he remained uncharged with any crime, and there being neither law nor precedent to warrant such an act. Mr. Hopkinson said that he knew the family of Mr. Meade, and had as strong excitement as any one, to urge the house in his favor, as far as he ought to go; but he would not agree to the matter being carried beyond reason. Finally, he observed that if any man was arrested and thrown into prison, as was proposed by this motion, the law would interpose, and a habeas corpus compel government to recede from their act.

Gen. Harrison thought that the house would be lost to all sense of its duty, if it did not before the end of the session adopt some decisive measure in behalf of Mr. Meade.

Mr. Sergeant thought that to take the proposed step and stop there, would be no satisfaction. What good could it do Mr. Meade if it did not procure his release?—and whether it would produce that or any other influence on the Spanish government, would depend on the value of the person we should arrest, in the eyes of that government. On our national honor it could have no favorable effect to wreak our vengeance for the wrongs done by the crown of Spain, on an innocent individual. If, on the other hand, it was intended not to stop there, but to go to war, this step would be improper—for, to take satisfaction, first, in kind, and then to take it in another way, must subject us to the just reproach of the world. In a word, one step only should be taken, and if the house thought that step should be war, they ought to march up to it at once.

Mr. Spencer spoke in reprobation of the treatment of Mr. Meade—but I was at such a distance that I could hear but a few words, and those very indistinctly.

Mr. Williams, of N. Carolina, thought that in resolving to support the president in any steps he might find it expedient to pursue, the house would do all that it could do. If the case demanded war they had better proceed to it at once.

Mr. Forsyth said, that by agreeing to this proposition, the house would commit on an innocent individual that very cruelty and injustice for which they so justly censured and menaced the Spanish government—an act for which the example of the Spanish government would be no justification—much less would it be justifiable to do so because we had the power; with us at least power did not constitute right. In this point of view he considered that the act would be dishonorable. "Have you not power (said he) to punish Spain for ill usage? If you have, why do you not do it at once, instead of wreaking vengeance on an individual who may have taken shelter under the protection of your country? Act definitively, and visit your indignation on Spain herself."

Mr. Forsyth then reminded the house that it was not as an American citizen Mr. Meade was imprisoned, but as a person who, by residence in Spain, had placed himself at once under the hands of the Spanish law—under its protection and under its penalties. An American citizen residing in foreign countries was, he said, subject to their laws, and we had no right to interfere with them.—"Seize all the property of Spain within your reach, (said he) that will serve to compel the Spanish government to restore Mr. Meade; but do not stain your country with an act of cruelty, inhumanity and injustice."

Mr. Trimble then recommended to the adoption of the house the old Mosaic law of "an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth," and illustrated his notion of applying it in the present case, by directing their attention to the island of Cuba on the one hand, which he called the right arm of this country, and on the other hand to Halifax, which I suppose he considered as the left. By what process of anatomy he cut his way to those conclusions, I am not profound enough to imagine—much less can I conceive by what interpretation of law, or even of the holy writ, the robbing England of Halifax could be construed into an eye for an eye retaliation upon Spain for imprisoning Mr. Meade.

The amendment was negatived, and then the resolution recommended in the report was passed.

The Niagara claims bill was rejected by a negative on the third reading—91 votes to 51, taken by yeas and nays.

Extract of a letter from the vicinity of Caraccas, dated February 22

With the little information which we have with respect to the Patriots, it seems to be pretty well ascertained that they will soon be in possession of all the province of Venezuela. They have been some time in possession of Angostura, and have the entire command of the Orinoco. At the date of the latest accounts Bolivar was collecting his forces for an attack on the city of Caracca, and intelligence of its capture is momently expected.

It is generally asserted and believed here by the inhabitants, and it is affirmed by the authorities of the island, that the United States have been paid by Great Britain for the slaves taken during the war of 1812, and now in this island—The reason for such belief is assigned to be, "because the United States are silent on the subject." In several conversations with the civil officers and lawyers of the island, when the subject was stirred, I have bluntly denied the fact. It is due to the character of the government of the United States, and to the conduct of Great Britain, in adopting that mode of pilfering warfare, and, indeed, to the owners of the slaves, that some official denial of the assertion should be made. You may rely upon the fact of it's being believed here, and of that belief being encouraged by the government.

EXPEDITION TO THE NORTH POLE.

Captain Buchan, of the Pike sloop of war, recently returned from Newfoundland, is appointed to the expedition to the north pole. Capt. Ross is the other officer who is to proceed thither. They are to be accompanied by four lieutenants attached to each of the captains, and the others to command the two vessels to act as tenders. Two of the ships proceed up Davis' Straits, the extent or termination of which is utterly unknown; and the other two, if possible, to the pole between Iceland and Greenland.

[London paper.

From the New-York Evening Post.

The officers of the revolutionary army petitioned congress, and stated that the United States had solemnly contracted to give each of them five years full pay at the end of the war—that instead of money, they received from the man appointed to settle their accounts a certificate for this amount and for all arrearages (and Heaven knows, if the account had been justly settled, there was more due than all the bad and depreciated trash which had been received.—That this certificate did promise to pay the debt, and that until it was paid the interest on it should be paid annually at 9 per cent.—That this certificate was soon found to be worth only two shillings in the pound, because the United States had no funds—that those who had starved through the war, not to continue starving in peace, were obliged to sell the certificate aforesaid for what any body would give—They, therefore, prayed congress, after deducting what each actually received in cash for this bit of paper, to make up to them the deficiency—congress would not do that. The petitioners then said, Gentlemen, if you won't make good the principal, be pleased to give us the interest you promised—a farthing of which we never received. Congress answered, Your interest followed your principal into the coffers of the speculator.—No, said the officers, that it did not—the speculator bought the principal so cheap, that to get it funded, and ultimately paid at twenty shillings in the pound, he sunk the six per cent. interest into three per cent. and agreed to wait ten years for a large part of the principal without any interest at all. The United States gained this great gain from the speculator immediately it is true, but mediately from the original owner—from those who had worked and suffered and fought for it for years—from those who made your country, and you too, gentlemen of the congress, what you now are; for, if these same poor fellows had given up the contest, which they carried on with halters about their necks, many of your fathers would have been hanged, gentlemen;—and you, yourselves, would have become hewers of wood and drawers of water, gentlemen, instead of being rulers of a rich and powerful nation. Give us at least, said the petitioners, this interest—you were all but bankrupts when you took it, but you are rich beyond your wishes now—from one source alone, the Alabama lands, you expect to realize forty millions of dollars—you know you do. If you will not give us half pay for life, which, to get rid of the hue and cry (of the citizens chiefly of the New England states, against pensioners, we were forced to commute for five years pay, down, as we, ignorant of every thing but our duty, were made to believe. If you will not, after deducting the cash we got for your bad paper, pay the remainder to us now, at least give us the interest—it will amount to $2500 to a captain—for you have kept this three per cent and deferred gain from 1783 to the present day; and $2500 would be worth infinitely more to us and our poor children than the miserable monthly pension you talk of giving. There will not be a dozen of us to receive your pension in five years—you see the youngest of the petitioners is fifty-seven years of age, and when we die the $20 die with us. Do you think, gentlemen, your fellow-citizens will be satisfied that you have done us justice? But congress did not choose to give principal or interest. The investigating contracts—the resettlement of accounts—could not at this late day be got into, and above all, it would open a door which never could be closed. If it was the door of justice, the petitioners said it was a pity it could not be opened, and remain open to all eternity. No, said congress, we will give you nothing but a pension—and a pension they have given to the sailor, who shared his prize money—to the private soldier, who received enormous bounty—to each of them is given a greater monthly pay than while in actual service during the war; and to generals, colonels and majors they have given the half pay of a captain! And what is worse, to him who bore the burden and heat of that most distressful war for seven long years, and to him who was dulled and lounged about the camp for nine months, the same doceur is given! Doceur, I believe, means sweetner—20 dollars a month to a field officer of sixty years of age, while he shall live, if it is a sweet at all, partakes largely of the nature of that fruit called a bitter sweet.

AN OLD OFFICER.

Norfolk, April 6.

Two Spanish gentlemen arrived yesterday morning from Havana. They were taken off the schr Commerce, (gone to Baltimore) and brought here by a pilot boat. These gentlemen state, that the Spanish frigate so long expected from Vera Cruz at Havana with specie, and to intercept which the Buenos Ayrean squadron had been for some time cruizing on the coast, had unfortunately got aground; but that the specie had all been safely landed at Campeachy. The frigate it was expected, would be got off again.

The following is the material part of the bill to increase the duties on certain manufactured articles imported into the United States, reported by Mr. Seybert, from the committee of commerce and manufactures.

Be it enacted, &c. That from and after the —— day of ——, 1818, the duties now in force upon the articles hereinafter enumerated and described, at their importation into the United States, shall cease; and that in lieu thereof, there shall be henceforth laid, levied, and collected upon the said articles at their importation, the several and respective rates or duties following, that is to say, on steel, one dollar and fifty cents per 100 weight; on shot, manufactured from lead, three cents per pound; on articles manufactured from copper, or of which copper is the material of chief value, twenty five per centum ad valorem; on silver plated saddlery, coach and harness furniture, twenty-five per centum ad valorem; on all paper commonly used for copper plate printing or writing, twelve and a half cents per pound; on all other paper, eight cents per pound; on tacks, brads and sprigs, not exceeding sixteen ounces to the thousand, five cents on every thousand thereof; and on tacks, brads and sprigs, exceeding sixteen ounces to the thousand, the same duty as on nails.

Section 2. And be it further enacted, That an addition of ten per centum shall be made to the several rates of duties above specified and imposed, in respect to all such goods, wares and merchandize, on the importation of which in American or foreign vessels a specific discrimination has not been herein already made, which after the said —— day of —— 1818, shall be imported in ships or vessels not of the United States: Provided, That this additional duty shall not apply to goods, wares and merchandize imported in ships or vessels not of the U. States, entitled by treaty or by any act or acts of congress, to be entered in the ports of the United States, on the payment of the same duties as are paid on goods, wares and merchandize imported in ships or vessels of the U States.

The 3d and 4th sections merely continue the present drawbacks, and the operation of the existing provisions for the collection of the duties, &c.

R. GIMENTAL COURT.

First Regiment, 2d Brigade, Militia D. Col. March 1, 1818.

Ordered, That the officers of the regiment strictly enforce the 27th section of the militia law of the District of Columbia at the ensuing musters of the present year, and that the adjutant publish in the newspapers of the town a copy of the law, and the order in relation thereto, as passed by the legionary court of inquiry of the 17th March, 1803, and approved by the brigadier general.

Section 27. And be it further enacted, That all non-commissioned officers and privates, belonging to the battalion company, shall appear when on duty uniformly clothed, the color and fashion of which uniforms to be determined on for the respective legions by the first legionary courts of enquiry which shall be held, and to be approved of by the brigadier general, provided the expense of the same, additional to that of the usual ordinary cheap clothing, does not exceed five dollars for each person; and every such non-commissioned officer, or drummer, or fifer, or private, appearing at any muster held after three months from the time that such uniforms shall have been determined on, and the order relative thereto shall have been published in some newspaper within the legionary district, and not wearing the same, shall be fined five dollars for each offence, unless he can make it appear to the satisfaction of the court of inquiry of the battalion to which he may belong, that he is unable to equip himself.

Ordered, That the uniform of the battalion companies of the 2d legion of militia of the District of Columbia be a dark blue coat of ordinary length, cape and lappels of the same, and white metal buttons, with white waistcoat and pantaloons, round black hat and shoes.

350 Acres of Land for sale.

THE subscriber wishes to sell 350 acres of LAND in the upper part of the county of Prince William, (Va.) lying immediately on the road leading from Haymarket to Leesburg, and about 3 miles from Aldie mills, from which latter place there is a turnpike road to Alexandria, distant 33 miles. One half of this farm is covered with a heavy growth of timber, such as white oak, black oak, hickory, locust, &c. The buildings are all new and in good order. As there is a saw mill erecting on an adjoining farm the timber may be converted into plank with convenience. This land is well watered, and none more susceptible of improvement or better adapted to the use of clover and plaister. Persons desirous of purchasing would do well to call and see it as a great bargain may be had. For terms apply to the subscriber living on the premises.

French Creek Boarding School.

The following is published for the information of Parents:

HAVING long believed that a School on a plan different from most others in many respects, would be beneficial to society, and apprehending that with all its cares, and the responsibility inseparable from such a concern, I could more cheerfully devote my time to the education of children than to any other business, I have concluded to establish a BOARDING SCHOOL for GIRLS.—With this view I have purchased the FRENCH CREEK FARM, four miles east of the yellow springs, on the Norristown and Philadelphia roads, situated in Pikeland and Vincent townships, Chester county, twenty-seven miles from Philadelphia, combining many conveniencies for the support of such an institution; and having let the farm, etc. in a way calculated to supply the family with provisions, I propose to devote my attention, with the aid of suitable assistants, to the education of the children who may be placed under my care.

In selecting the pupils, it is not proposed to be governed entirely by their ages, nor to require that they shall all be members of the religious society of Friends; but as the school rules will be very few in number and very simple, it is my wish that none may be sent contrary to their own inclination, nor any one who would not be likely to be good examples to the other scholars, and treat them with kindness and affection.

The price for board and tuition will be two hundred Dollars per annum, one quarter always to be paid in advance—no restrictions respecting the kind of clothing are intended, nor respecting the frequency of the changes that parents may require; the washing will be charged at the ordinary price per dozen—children may be admitted for one quarter only, and such as are entered for a longer period, may nevertheless be removed at the expiration of any quarter.—The communication with Philadelphia will be frequent and easy by stage, and a house of entertainment kept by the farmer for the accommodation of persons having business at the school.

Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, English Grammar, Geography and the use of Maps and globes, will be taught, together with such other branches as the progress of the children and experience may render expedient. The school to open the first of the 5th month next. For further information apply to Edward Stabler, Alexandria, or to

Fan-Sash Making

METAL FAN-SASHES, of various descriptions, will be made by the subscriber, at his shop, lower end of Duke street. The want of a Metal Fan Sash Manufactory in Alexandria, has hitherto been severely felt by builders and others, who have been compelled to make use of wood, which is neither elegant nor durable. The various forms into which the metal can be shaped have given it a decided superiority, and the difference in the price is very trifling. The subscriber has been at considerable expence in procuring the necessary preparations, and relies on public enterprise for success in the undertaking.

Gentlemen in the country, by sending the dimensions of their sashes, can have them made at the same price as if in town.

James Kennedy & Son,

RESPECTFULLY inform the public that they have just received from

LEE'S MEDICINE STORE,

No. 46, Maiden lane, New-York, a fresh supply of the following valuable MEDICINES:

Hamilton's Worm destroying Lozenges,

Which have within sixteen years past cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation, of various obnoxious complaints arising from WORMS, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Teres or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitine or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; pains in the head and thighs and lowness of spirits; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of children"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums.

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended

HAHN'S ANTI BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, asthma, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions.—To parents who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative,

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of

Nervous Disorders	Violent cramps in the stomach and back
Consumptions	Indigestion
Lowness of spirits	Melancholy
Loss of appetite	Gout in the stomach
Impurity of b'ood	Pains in the limbs
Hysteric'l affection	Relaxations, etc.
Inward weaknesses and debility

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc. etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.

Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaister,

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing them root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion,

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflamatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water,

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weakness or of accident.

Tooth Ache Drops.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Lee's Infallible Ague and Fever Drops

For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

☞ At the place of sale pamphlets may be had gratis, describing cures performed by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of which, fully justify every article of this advertisement.
